

Anna Buzzelli About the Creative Designer

Anna always knew she wanted to be an artist. Growing up, she would spend countless hours drawing and painting, always experimenting with different media, color combinations and textures. She spent every second of free time in an art studio.

Her love for art led her to Carlow University and The Art Institute of Pittsburgh where she studied graphic design. After graduating, she worked as a freelancer then went on to join a design agency just outside of Pittsburgh. There she had a chance to hone her craft while helping local, regional, and global businesses ranging in size from startups to Fortune 500 companies.

In 2010, Anna launched Buzzelli Design—a creative graphic and web design shop. Over the past four plus years she's helped clients design advertisements, magazines, mobile websites, direct mail pieces, logos and more. She prides herself on producing high quality work that fits the unique needs, budgets, and deadlines of each organization.
